

Gold Member Slaney Foods International

Spotlight Target Area: Supplier Certification / Emissions

Sustainability has always been a core principle for Slaney Foods and the business has evolved over the years to embed this mindset into its structures, technologies and practices. Having become a member of Origin Green in 2013, Slaney Foods' dedicated team strive to ensure continuous improvement is driven at every opportunity, pushing beyond established goals wherever possible. The company's commitment to this agenda is clearly visible, having demonstrated an exemplary performance in its Origin Green plan in 2020 across the target areas of supplier certification, animal health and nutrition, packaging, water, waste and employee wellbeing. Within the company's current sustainability plan (2018-2020), Slaney Foods set out to achieve a reduction of 10% in water usage per unit of output by 2020. This target was achieved over the plan, with the company exceeding its original milestone by 2%, resulting in an overall (m3 /t) cumulative decrease of 12% in a three-year period.

About

Slaney Foods International, situated in Bunclody, Co. Wexford, has been part of Ireland's beef story for over 50 years. Employing approximately 500 people in the heart of the Slaney Valley - one of Ireland's prime farming regions, the company has developed strong and successful long-term relationships with a variety of customers including leading multiples and foodservice companies throughout Ireland, the UK, Europe and worldwide. Slaney Foods is dedicated to working in partnership with farmers to produce top-class grass-fed beef. The company ensures that livestock is sourced from farms that uphold the highest animal welfare and environmental standards to offer a product range of superb quality, prepared precisely to customers' specifications. Slaney Foods' corporate sustainability philosophy is based on harmonious interaction between what it considers its five essential components; agriculture, process, people, customers, and society.
