About the Company

The Culinary Food Group has been operating in Naas, Co. Kildare for almost 30 years. TCFG is part of the Queally Group and as part of Ireland's largest privately owned agri-food business, have become experts at developing and manufacturing premium natural stocks, culinary sauces, filled pasta and prepared ingredients.

Today, TCFG boasts four manufacturing sites, associated storage and distribution facilities at our value-added food campus in Naas assets producing premium culinary solutions across 4 different product technologies.

Spotlight Target Area: Product Health and Nutrition

The Culinary Food Group are proud members of Origin Green and are committed to protecting the environment. With a focus on sustainability, the company work continuously to make positive changes to reduce energy and water usage, reduce waste, improve processing, and re-use as many resources as possible. The Culinary Food Group always strive to act responsibly within the local and wider communities and have already made great progress within the area of product health and nutrition.

In 2021 TCFG introduced seven new vegan products and of the 90 new products launched in 2021 and 66% were eligible for low sugar claim. As well as the group's strong performance in the Product Health and Nutrition target area, the Culinary Food Group also demonstrated exemplary performance within the target areas of Raw Materials Certification, Water, and Employee Wellbeing.
